Three Spheres: East, West & Digital -- Man & the Machine

Globalism is Dead but most haven't got the memo. It has been replaced by a new structure, Three Spheres: East, West & Digital.

Understanding this fundamental change is critical for anyone evaluating the opportunities and risks they are facing today. The chaos we are experiencing is the result of the shift from Television (Fantasy) to Digital (Memory) as paradigms. Coming to grips with this shift, however destabilizing it may be, has become mandatory.

The Center for the Study of Digital Life (CSDL) was founded in 2015 to pursue the unique challenges and opportunities of life under DIGITAL conditions. We have capitalized DIGITAL throughout to indicate that this is an environment (not just a technology) which is radically different from any previous one that has been experienced by humanity. Recognition of the patterns that have already changed in our lives has become a crucial task for those who wish to understand, take responsibility and act positively in this new environment.
